PROFILE

Account and project Manager with over 10 years of experience in marketing and communication project management, gained working with agencies, companies and public administrations. My background combines an education in architecture with specialisation in digital communication, leading me to develop a creative yet concrete vision, oriented towards business objectives. I am currently Account Director of a digital communication agency and software house based in Tuscany, where I coordinate multidisciplinary teams and complex projects in the fields of marketing, branding, web development and corporate communication. I deal with strategy, client relations, new business development and operational supervision. I move naturally between creativity, organisation and strategic vision, with a result-oriented approach and a strong focus on human and professional relations with clients and collaborators
